Combat Training Centers (CTC)

Description/Summary of Program Requirements

The mission of the Army CTC Program is to provide realistic Joint and combined arms collective training for Soldiers, leaders, staffs, and units according to Army and Joint doctrine. The CTC Program includes several organizations. The Joint Readiness Training Center (JRTC), located at Fort Polk, Louisiana. The National Training Center (NTC), located at Fort Irwin, California. The Joint Multi-National Readiness Center (JMRC) at Hohenfels, Germany. Regardless of training location, all units face a highly skilled opposing force that uses our enemy's current tactics, techniques, and procedures.

This effort is to provide rotational training & training support for live training, leadership training and development, and Warfighter functions training.

*NOTE – All Instrumentation System (IS) support requirements will be procured under the Army TADSS Maintenance Program (ATMP)
